THE CONSTRUCTION

The first attempt to have a national school built was made in December 1901 when a grant was applied for but it was not successful. It was tried again in 1907. An Inspector's report on the educational needs of the area led to a grant being made on 2 November 1909. The original grant was for a school of 110 pupils but the Parish Priest at the time, Canon Casey, argued for a school of 150 pupils, or rather two schools, for boys and girls. This was agreed and an extra grant awarded on 6 September 1910 on condition that the numbers would justify it. The condition being that at least 50 children would attend each school within the first two years. However, this did not happen.

It cost an estimated £1239.15s.0p. to build, equip and enclose. The Parish contributed £127. In accordance with the custom of the time the Management was vested by a lease, a Vesting Lease, with the Diocese of Kerry to oversee the provision of primary education. The lease was for 900 years from 13 February 1911. The construction was completed in 1912 by the Board of Works with a lot of local help and on a piece of land provided free by Humphrey O'Donoghue. Coffey was the contractor and a Flynn from Waterford was the foreman of the building work. The builders lodged at Lane's cottage. It was opened on 12 August 1913.

It was reported on 25 October 1913 that none of the children knew any Irish and English was the home language of all pupils. It was also reported that the teachers were not yet competent to teach a full course of Irish. They were attending classes to obtain the necessary qualifications.

The first Principal of the Girls' school was Miss Bridget O'Shea and the Junior Assistant Mistress (JAM) was Miss Mary Ellen Corcoran from Minor Row. The Principal of the boys' school was Timothy Corcoran from Pound Hill who operated on the basis of frightening the life out of pupils. They took up their appointments on 12 August 1913.

With the change of state the Free State, the Irish taxpayer, took over all the cost of teaching, upkeep and inspection and the new Government acquired the rights and responsibilities that the Commissioners of Education had.

The attendance on 30 September 1913 was 29 boys and 35 girls. It varied very little in the early years and on 30 June 1916 it had 28 boys and 37 girls. This meant that the original justification for the two schools was not met and the authorities exercised their rights to have them amalgamated into one. The Commissioners of National Education made plans to carry out the amalgamation and the Parish Priest, Fr. Casey, was furious at the proposal and wrote to the Commissioners on 1 October 1916 to object as follows:

The Presbytery,
MILLSTREET,
Co. Cork.

Dear Sir,

I thank you for your letter received this morning. In the interests of education here I am entirely opposed to the idea of amalgamation of the Aubane Boys' and Girls' National schools. It would simply ruin their usefulness in this locality. The people would bitterly resent it and I believe if such a thing were to happen it would be a misfortune that they had ever been built.

I may state that your predecessor was just as much against the idea, in the circumstances, as I am. It is also a fact that these schools are at present - as they have been from the beginning - a decided success. The female school has, during the summer months (except during an epidemic such as prevails at present) an attendance of more than 40 pupils, and we hope for still better attendance and results.

Yours very truly,
(Sgd.) J. CANON CASEY.

A. B. Gloster, Esq.,
Inspector.

*[attendance of 40
not reached in either school since they were opened.]*

Canon Casey was not successful. The facts and figures were against him. Neither school had reached even 40 pupils in each. It now seems extraordinary that he could contemplate the closing of the school rather than have children of both sexes educated together. The schools were amalgamated on 1 Jan 1917 with Tim Corcoran as Principal, Bridget O'Shea as Privileged Assistant and Mary Ellen Corcoran as Junior Assistant Mistress. Miss Corcoran left on being called to training in 1919. Miss O'Shea became Mrs Riordan in 1923, marrying "Peter the Peeler". They lived at what was later Timmy 'Robert' Sullivan's house. When confirmed at 12 most children left. It was extensively refurbished by the Department in 1961 at a cost of £5,000.

The other teachers were Jimmy Kelleher from Kilnamartra and Lyre, (part time), Din Joe Murphy from Boherbue, John Kinneally from Millstreet, John Weir from Ballylongford and Ballyvourney, Noreen Doherty (later Scully). Pat Holly was Principal from 1 October 1948 - 3 September 1967), Peggy Connell (later Kelleher) from 3 September 1956 - 1 September 1974, and John Tynan was the last Principal from 27 November 1967 - 1 September 1974. It amalgamated with Millstreet Boys' school on 2 September 1974.

The Register, usually referred to as the Roll Books, are available thanks to John Tynan who had the foresight to take care of them and make them available. We all owe him a debt of thanks. At the time of writing I believe there are three still alive from the very first day's intake - Cors. C. Kelleher, better known as Con Conny Conor or Con Concubhair, his brother Jack and Julia Kelleher - now Mrs Murray who lives near Carrigimna. A total of over 600 pupils went through the school during its life.

AUBANE SOCIAL CLUB

Since it was closed as a school in 1974 the building has become the location for the Aubane Social Club. The Club has put the building to excellent use for the benefit of the Community all around the area and the Committee have shown great initiative and done tremendous work over the years in developing all sorts of very worthwhile activities both educational and recreational.

The recent celebrations of the 250th anniversary of the Butter Road were a good example of what they could do and what can be done with some well organised community spirit. Several thousand man-hours, and woman-hours, of work were spent on this event alone and apparently several stone weight were shed in the process. This shows that the spirit which built the school in the first place lives on and it has made the School building the social focus of the area. This is perfectly in keeping with its basic purpose.

Many people have certainly enjoyed coming to the building now in a way they never did when it was a school particularly those of the generation(s) when Tim Corcoran was Head. His memory haunted past pupils until the day they died.

When one looks at these roll books it does, among other things, make one think of one's own mortality and at the risk of sounding morbid I would like to suggest that us past pupils might think of the future of the School building and the Social Club in our wills.

The vast majority of the 600 or so of us who went through the school are still alive and if we all left, let's say £1,000, to the Social Club they could have up to half a million pounds to do things with in the years to come. On their record to date we could all feel perfectly certain that they would put it to the best possible use. All friends of the School would of course be very welcome to consider the suggestion also!

Give it a thought!.

THE REGISTER

There were two roll books which were used throughout the life of the school. These began when there was separate boys and girls schools but for some reason were not amalgamated into one book when the two schools were in 1917. One result is that the chronological order is a bit confusing at times. There are also some double entries, which might have been caused by the confusion of having the two books. There is also a distinct possibility that this may have been deliberate to give the impression of having higher numbers than was actually the case. Also, there may be some mistakes in birthdays, though not many. This was probably caused by relying on what the children themselves said on the day they enrolled.

It can be seen that there was a drastic change of style in 1948 when all entries were made in Irish which may have been the politically correct thing to do at the time but makes it a little more difficult to know who's who as nobody spoke the language and nobody was actually know by these names.

The information is laid out in columns beginning with the date of entry; the number allocated on the register; the pupil's name; their date of birth; their religion; their townland; their father's occupation; the name of any other school they had attended.

These pages therefore contain quite an amount of information and I hope it will be both useful and enjoyable to readers.

Primary education was provided by Aubane National School for 60 years. This publication gives an account of its construction and contains a record of all who attended it - about 600 people in total.

The School building is now the location of the Aubane Social Club who are doing a magnificent job in maintaining the building and continuing its basic purpose - providing a service for the development of the local community.
